HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment. You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment. You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment. You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also lists the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.

HOW TO READ YOUR BARROW COUNTY ANNUAL NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT

- 1. This is not a bill. Do not send payment.
You have 45 days after the assessment notice date to appeal the appraised value of your property. This also list the official mailing date of the notice and your last day to file an appeal. You can file an appeal in person, online or by mail.
- 2. Your right to appeal
An owner has the right to appeal the appraised value. If you elect to file an appeal on your property, you must choose one of the appeal methods listed on the appeal form.
- 3. Homestead code
If the Tax Assessor's office has approved you for a homestead exemption, there will be a homestead code listed. For more information on homestead visit www.Barrowassessor.org
- 4. Your parcel number
Use this unique number to identify your property and conduct research on the Barrow County website.
- 5. Current year value
Georgia law requires that your property is appraised at fair market value. Assessed value is 40% of the fair market value.
- 6. Reason for change in value
This indicates the reason for a change in value. The most common reason is market changes, such as sales within your neighborhood. Other reasons that a value change may occur include changes in property conditions, such as changes to your home.
- 7. Taxing authorities & funds
This is a list of each authority that provides County services, along with any exemptions that apply, the assessed value after each exemption, and the related millage rate set by the Board of Commissioners or Board of Education. The rates listed are subject to change and millage rates are adopted after all annual notices of assessment are calculated.
